Information for Those Who Are Looking for Education

TIME TO SETTLE ONE QUESTION

"Which School" Must Soon Be Answered, and The Bee Is Ready to Help All Who Want Help.

For those parents who have not already selected the school at which their boy or girl will attend during the coming year, or where the necessary preparation for entry to a higher institution of learning, or the pursuit of scholastic honors shall be forwarded for any of the purposes that select and advanced schools are set up and maintained—The Bee offers this morning a choice selection of schools of the best type.

Every grade of education, from the kindergarten to the highest degree of post-graduate work, is represented by the schools that are this morning advertised.

Each has its own peculiar advantages. The school under private control, the school that is under direction of some one or another of the great church organizations, the great colleges and universities, all present their propositions. Each makes its offer to the parents who are particular and hope to give their young folks the proper start in life, the educational along with the ethical and religious training on which firm foundation character is built and from which success must come.

Not much more time remains to make a choice. The summer is rapidly slipping away, and within six weeks trunks will be packed, tickets will be bought, and the young folks will be crowding the campus again, starting fresh on a new year of school work. That is why The Bee is today calling attention to these schools.

To those parents who have not decided, and who want further information, The Bee offers from the services of its educational bureau. If you want advice or assistance, address The Bee educational bureau, stating what information you desire, and it will be furnished you without cost.

OMAHA SEMINARY ACTIVITIES

Extensive Repairs Under Way in Preparation for New Year.
Extensive repairs are in progress on the Omaha Presbyterian Theological seminary building and new decorations and other improvements will be completed before the opening of the next term in September.

During the early spring additional cases were placed in the library and under the direction of the librarian, Dr. Charles Herron, the books on the shelves, numbering more than 6,000 volumes, were rearranged on the shelves according to a new classification. Since then many new books have been added to the library, among them the last edition of the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Dr. A. B. Marshall, the president of the seminary, has been filling the pulpit of the First church of Beatrice, Neb., for several weeks. This church is now without a pastor, Rev. Leon D. Young, D. D., having been called recently to the First church of Lincoln.

Dr. Marshall will preach for the West church of St. Louis during the month of August and between Sundays he will spend one week at Tarkio, Mo., delivering a series of inspirational addresses at the School of Missions, now opening in that city, and later in the month he will be the speaker for four days at the Presbyterian chautauqua, held at Hollister, Mo.

Recent letters received from Prof. Charles Herron report that he is having very interesting experiences as he visits the great university centers and reformations cities of Germany and Switzerland.

FREMONT COLLEGE NOTES

Komensky Club Formed Among the Students Last Week.

The State Examining board consisting of Messrs. E. J. Bodwell of Beatrice, A. E. Fischer of Aurora and N. M. Graham of South Omaha, were visitors at the college today looking into the records for state certificates this coming August. Mr. Fischer was a guest of President Clemmons over night and addressed the students in chapel Friday morning.

Miss Sarika Hrbek, head of the Slavonic department at the University of Nebraska, gave an instructive and very interesting lecture on "Bohemia and the Czechs," at the Star Literary hall Tuesday night. After the lecture the members of the Bohemian club of the college rendered a musical program and organized into a permanent federated Komensky Klub with the following officers in charge for the remaining summer session: President, Julia Kriel; vice president, Charles Severny; secretary, Minnie Lukes; treasurer, Estella Krejci; correspondent, Elizabeth Lukes.

Forty members of the Komensky Klub spent Saturday picnicking at Arlington, Mo., and Mrs. Clemmons motored to Decatur, where they spent Sunday with one of their former students, E. A. Hanson and family. Mr. Hanson is engaged in the banking business and has had a most successful career since leaving college. He is one of the live wires of that section of country.

Jewel West, a student of the college, has just closed a contract for the schools at Mullen, Neb., at a salary of $1,000 per year. Miss Elsie Sotley has accepted a primary position in Montana at a good salary; also, Miss Ethel Drake has closed a contract for the Carleton school, northwest of Fremont, at a salary of $6 per month.

Hon. Frank E. Edgerton, assistant attorney general, will deliver the commencement address at the college on the morning of August 12. Rev. Nathaniel McGiffin, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Fremont, will deliver the baccalaureate sermon, August 9.

Miss Jennie Huron of Clearwater, Fla., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Gilbert. Miss Huron is the sister of Mrs. Gilbert of the Latin department.

Mrs. L. B. Bethards and three children of Omaha, will be guests of their cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Clemmons the coming week.

ST. JOSEPH VETERINARY.

School That Offers Thorough Training in Profession to Its Students.

The St. Joseph Veterinary college, located at St. Joseph, a most advantageous point for its work, has been entirely reorganized, and is now under its new management, offering a course in veterinary medicine surpassed by no other similar college in America. Its laboratories have been fully equipped, additions and changes made in the faculty, and the course strengthened, until it now complies in every particular with the requirements governing eligibility to membership in the American Veterinary Medical association. The college is a member of the Federation of American Veterinary colleges, and is fully recognized by the United States department of agriculture and the United States civil service commission.

The policy of the college is to limit the number of students in the classes, so that the teaching force can, by personal contact and guidance, do just that much more for each student in the practical and technical details. Every year the St. Joseph Veterinary college has had more requests for graduates than it could fill, thus showing that the demand for trained veterinarians is still keeping up. During the next ten years the state of Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska and Kansas will need about 400 veterinarians each, or a total of 1,600, and like proportions in other agricultural states to do their work, both local and official. The profession is coming to be respected more and more, because the quacks and "horse-doctors" are rapidly dropping out. A provision of special interest is included in the announcements of the catalogue of the college, which is just off the press, and which will open the doors for many to an opportunity to equip themselves for the practice of an honorable and paying profession. It is to this effect:

"In recognition of the fact that age, maturity, experience and other factors tend to compensate, in a measure at least, for lack of scholastic attainments, applicants over 21 years of age may, on presentation of satisfactory reasons, be admitted by the board of directors or executive committee of the college without passing the equivalent examination; provided, that if any student has been so admitted, he shall take the omitted portion of the entrance examination and requirements at least one academic year before he may be a candidate for a degree conferred by this college, or in lieu thereof, the board of directors may substitute excess work in other approved subjects."

To assist the students who may enter under these conditions, the college management has made arrangements with the Both dormitories are in charge of Prof. Grace Hubbard as adviser. Features of the session are the band concerts, the university chorus, the organ recitals and the performance of the Coburn Players, while scores of excursions to places in and about the city take up the unoccupied time of the students.
